EXCELLENT SERVICE
At Third Street M. E. Church Last Night—Rev. Spybey Gave Fine Address.
One of the best crowds of the week was present at the Third Street M. E. church last evening at the "Win-ay-Chum" service.
Rev. Spybey, pastor of the Ripley, O., M. E. church, was the speaker of the evening and his talk on "Praying Until Something Happens," was one of the best yet given at any of these meetings. Rev. Spybey is a very earnest and forceful speaker and what he says carries conviction to the hearts of his hearers.
There will be no services this evening, it being Saturday, and every one will be given a chance to rest up for Sunday.

Stockholders of Maysville Syrup Company Hold An Important Meeting—Capital Stock Increased.
COMPANY MAKES GOOD SHOWING.
The stockholders of the Maysville Syrup Company, of Maysville, Ky., the manufacturers of Maysville's celebrated drink, "Mint Cola," held a very important meeting at the plant on Sutton street Friday afternoon.
The meeting was very harmonious and enthusiastic. Out of the seventy-seven stockholders, there were forty-two present either in person or by proxy. These represented $37,790 of the total capital of $46,000 issued.
The report of the Board of Directors was read. It showed on the face of a financial statement from the parent company and one subsidiary company at Salisbury, N. C., that the earnings for the last eleven months showed a net earning of between 8 and 9 per cent on the capital stock issued. This is considered remarkable when everything is taken into consideration, as to the building up of a new business in the face of hard competition and adverse business conditions during the last year.
Enthusiastic and rousing speeches were made by Messrs. E. T. Kirk, M. J. McCarthy, C. N. Bolinger, Thomas H. Gray, W. H. Rees and Thomas A. Keith, with considerable discussion from almost every stockholder present.
In order to increase the business of the company and to further the sale of its product, "Mint Cola," it was decided to increase the capital stock from $50,000 to $75,000.
The vote upon this proposition was unanimous. The books of the company were thrown open to the present stockholders, and will remain open until November 20, at which time the price of the stock will be increased above par. Outsiders will be compelled to pay a premium for this stock, which is now considered to be one of the best investments around Maysville.
To show the faith of those present in the company, and their willingness to enlarge the output and increase the business, there was more than $3,000 subscribed for the new stock.
"Mint Cola" stock is a good buy, and Maysville should feel proud of this enterprise, as it is a growing institution, and under the present capable management ought to be one of the very best paying investments in Mason county.
The company can now pay an 8 per cent dividend and still have money in the treasury. At the regular annual meeting of the stockholders in December it is probable this action will be taken.
Here is a Maysville enterprise that is worth every citizen's boast. Be a booster, and help Maysville to grow. Get the boost! Everybody's doing it. The Commercial Club will show you the way if you don't know how.

ANNEX NEARING COMPLETION.

The brick annex that will replace the one burned down at the Cotton Mills several months ago, is nearing completion. Two stories of brick-work have been completed, and in a few days the finishing touches will be made. When completed, the annex will be one of the most modern buildings in Maysville.

MORGAN TRIAL TODAY.

The trial of Oscar Morgan, charged with improper relations with his 15-year-old daughter, will be held this afternoon before County Judge W. H. Rice. Something of a sensational nature, it is said, will be exposed during the trial.

OCCUPIES RECENTLY PURCHASED PROPERTY.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Gray and Mrs. Edward Schwartz on Friday moved into the Malone property on Fourth street, which they recently purchased from Mr. Thomas Malone.

Rev. A. F. Stahl, the popular pastor of the Christian church, has received the unanimous call of the official board of that church as their pastor for another year. The board's action will be ratified at the Sunday morning service. Since Mr. Stahl came to Maysville he has made everybody his friend, therefore the call is not only unanimous in his own church, but is the verdict of the entire citizenship of this city.

MAYSVILLE LADIES HONORED.

Governor McCreary on Thursday appointed Mrs. Stanley F. Reed and Mrs. Augustus Thomas, of this city, on a Kentucky Committee of Special Relief Society for the purpose of interesting the women of this State in the program outlined by President Wilson. HAD HIS VALISE STOLEN.

Several weeks ago while Rev. J. H. Fielding was on his way home from Lexington, a passenger on the same train got off at Millersburg with the reverend gentleman's valise. It contained among other things a Bible Mr. Fielding prized very highly. As the man who took the valise is known, Mr. Fielding has hopes of getting back the articles taken.

EIGHTY-ONE MEMBERS

To Chamber of Commerce Rolls Friday—It Is To Be Made 400 By Noon Tuesday—Every Maysvillian Should Do His Part.

Another splendid showing was made for Maysville Friday, when the Chamber of Commerce membership campaign brought in eighty-one new members, after just two hours' canvass in the forenoon. If team work can do this, what can it not do for Maysville, when the team working for all the interests of our city is from 350 to 400 men? That's what the team workers have decided to make it, "400 members for the Chamber of Commerce."

Have you done your part, Mr. Citizen? If not, don't hang back any longer, but come into the enthusiastic bunch who are going to set a new pace in developing the commercial, industrial and civic interests of Maysville.

The eighty-one memberships turned in Friday make a total of 223, or a membership income of $2,787.50 per year.

Those who would be really true citizens, those who would be a truly representative part in building a bigger, better town, must, to claim such a distinction, join in this movement. It is up to you. You can not say that you will not become identified with the Chamber of Commerce because the other fellow hasn't joined. The responsibility is entirely personal and individual. There is yet time. The Chamber of Commerce will be absolutely representative of the entire city. It must have a membership large enough from all classes to make it powerful.

No man with love of home in his heart can afford to withhold his membership. Are you, Mr. Citizen, among those who are unwilling to give the price of a cigar a day for your town? Come in. Join the bunch of live wires who are doing all in their power to help your town and to help you. "Do It For Maysville."

The summary by teams for Friday was as follows:

SOME RECORD

Mr. L. T. Anderson, of Point Au View, Sells Two Horses That Are National Show Winners.

Mr. L. T. Anderson, of Point Au View, is fast forging to the front as one of the best horsemen in the United States, and is making a record that is enviable.

Several months ago he sold to A. W. Atkinson, president of the Victor Talking Machine Company, of Camden, N. J., "Sandy McDonald," who won in the class for undocked horses over 15.2 at the National Horse Show on Wednesday night in New York. The prize was a handsome cup presented by Mr. Charles E. Cox.

At the same show "The Governor" won the Sir James Challenge Cup presented by Mr. Alfred Vanderbilt for the best gig horse. "The Governor" is owned by Mr. John L. Bushnell, of Springfield, O., and was purchased from Mr. Anderson a few weeks ago.

This is quite a record to have owned and trained two horses that proved themselves to be national winners, and argues well for Mr. Anderson's horsemanship.

INJURED MAN DIES

Collision of "Dinkies" At Government Dam Results Fatal.

Bert Lupie, the Hungarian who was injured in the collision of "dinky" engines at the government dam Thursday about 8 p. m., died at Hayswood Hospital Friday afternoon at 2:30.

Lupie was injured about the abdomen and his death was expected, there being no chance of his recovery. The body was removed to Coughlin & Company's undertaking parlors, where it is held, pending news from relatives. The condition of Peter Grosse, who was injured at the same time, is somewhat improved and his recovery is expected.

FREE CHURCH SOCIAL.

Those who were present at the general committee meeting in the Christian church Friday night were enthusiastic in their planning for the church social to be held next Friday evening. Some additional committees were appointed. The membership and friends of this church are asked to hold this date open for this event.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL

Washington To Erect $15,000 Modern School Building—Money Now Being Subscribed.

The residents of Washington are wide awake these days and their pride is being stirred as never before, much to their credit.

They are contemplating the erection of a handsome modern school building to cost not less than $15,000, and what's more, the money is being raised among the public spirited people of that little old town.

Already more than $5,000 has been raised, one contributor donating $1,000 cash.

The new building, as we understand it, is to be used as a consolidated school, and will accommodate several hundred pupils. Every room is to be modern and up-to-date, with every known convenience for the health and comfort of the students and teachers.

When it comes to matters educational, Mason county people are right there, and they believe in having good schools.

In the last five or six years Mason county has taken a long forward step in the world of education that is worthy of emulation by many other counties in Kentucky.

The Ledger congratulates the people of Washington upon their enterprise and stands ready to aid them in this great and glorious project. May success attend your efforts, ladies and gentlemen.

PATRIOTISM AND PREPAREDNESS.

We read much in the press on the subject of national preparedness, and for our country's sake it is well that it is so. No important country ever stood in greater need of it than we stand today.

But while taking up the subject of building warships and raising army reserves, let us not overlook the matter of patriotism in local communities, for it is upon these people the nation must lean to a great extent when in time of stress.

Newspaper publicity and the imminence of our being plunged into war is doing much to convert the adult mind to the necessity of an adequate preparation for defense against invasion, but we should go farther than the adult.

We should begin today to inject a feeling of patriotism into the hearts of the youth of our local communities, a reverence of and devotion to the flag of our country, and a determination to uphold the dignity and preserve the integrity of the nation at all times and under all conditions.

Since the days of '61 and '65 the patriotism of the American people has been declining day by day until 1915 finds us a nation of adults with but slight conception of what the flag should mean to us, and with less thought as to the future security of our country.

Patriotism has been left to shift for itself and has gone down in the waters of commercialism.

It is time for a change, and the change should begin today.

In every school and in every home of the country little children should be taught to love and respect the Stars and Stripes, to look upon them as the symbol of liberty and the champion of right and of the weak and the oppressed.

They should be taught that love of country ranks next to their love of God, even to the giving of life itself in its defense.

If the same policy had been pursued in our homes and in our schools and other public places during the last fifty years the nation would not be in its present precarious condition. Patriotism alone would have demanded and secured action by the government and the Congress, and the United States today would have been in a state of defense sufficient to guarantee it against aggressive action by any foreign government.

It is useless now to weep over the errors of the past, but we can at least take action to prevent our children facing the same condition of affairs after we have passed away.

If you want a forceful illustration of the lack of patriotism in this country, and of the ignorance of the symbolism of the flag, just watch the little children at the close of some parade. You will most likely see them sitting on curbstones wiping the dust from their shoes with miniature flags of their country.

And when you have seen this, be a patriot yourself, and go home and begin the imparting of patriotic impulses to your own offspring, and insist that the teachers in our schools do their duty to their country as well as to the community. Protect the adults of tomorrow from the fate that menaces those of today.

TREASURY STATEMENTS MANIPULATED.

For the second time the present national administration has changed the form of its daily treasury statement, both changes resulting in a showing of larger net balances in the general fund and making it difficult or practically impossible to compare treasury conditions in 1915 with conditions under Republican administrations. Thus, the promised "pitiless publicity" has changed to studied secrecy. The latest change was made on October 1. By that change there was an apparent over-night increase of $87,000,000 in the net balance. No such increase actually occurred is not claimed by the Treasury Department, yet the daily statements will hereafter show about that much more than would have been shown under previous methods of making the daily statement.

It has been the practice of many enterprising newspapers, Republican, Democratic and Independent, to print the daily treasury statement, with comparisons with previous years. Hereafter, no comparisons can be made. It will be interesting, therefore, for the American citizen who feels an interest in the business of his government, to take a look at the last comparison that can be made. On September 30, 1915, the net balance in the general fund was $40,898,894, as compared with a balance of $123,416,613 on the corresponding date in 1913, when the Republican revenue laws and appropriations were still in effect. On that day the administration had spent, since June 30, $43,486,740 more than its receipts. It was running behind nearly $500,000,000 a day. Yet, by its change in book-keeping, the net balance jumped from $40,898,894 on September 30, to $128,063,545 on the following day. To those who have watched the steady downward course of the treasury balance, this mushroom growth in one day would be amusing if it did not deal with the business affairs of all the people.

EDITORIAL SIDELIGHTS

The editor of this paper does not profess to be an authority on farming, but to our mind it would seem that the following of a few simple rules would result in more satisfactory results from the standpoint of the tiller of the soil.

1. Produce enough of each article needed to subsist the family from year to year and feed the stock without having to go into the market and buy those articles at high prices. Let this be carefully figured out before planting time and see that provision is made for quite enough of each article of diet.

2. Keep enough hogs, cattle and poultry to supply all of the meat and eggs required during the year without having to buy at the end of the season.

3. Instead of planting the surplus acreage to the time honored crops that yield small returns, study the market reports carefully and select crops that will produce well on the particular land in question and yet bring a high price in the city markets. Then put every available acre and all possible energy into producing a large yield from these crops and sell in the city markets when prices are at high tide.

4. To avoid wearing out the land rotate the crops, always selecting the articles that bring the highest prices and yield the largest crops to the acreage, thus producing the greatest financial returns.

5. Study the different crops each season and devise ways and means of increasing the yield while at the same time reducing the cost of production. This is not a difficult proposition if a person goes at it scientifically and with a determination to succeed.

6. When reports indicate that the country is going in heavily for one certain crop, let that crop alone and raise something equally as productive of financial returns. The farmer who is long on a short crop has a small gold mine.

7. Don't be afraid to try something new. Others all over this country are becoming rich by getting in on the ground floor of a new and good thing.

If you have a boy who is afraid to soil his hands, lead him out into the garden and start him to digging. Stand over him and see that he keeps on digging. And when he gets through digging, just hand him an ax and show him the woodpile and let him exercise his muscles there for a few days. Possibly the barn needs a good cleaning out. That will please him and add a little more to his muscular development. It may soil his hands, but a little soap and water will do wonders when properly applied. He may not be ardently in love with his jobs, but they will serve to beat a little horse sense into his head and in time he may become a fairly good citizen. The high positions in the commercial world are not filled by men who were afraid to soil their hands in their youth. A dirty face is to be censured, but soiled hands are more often an evidence of manly toil.

You are reading this paragraph now because you have learned to look for something of value in these columns. Here's something that is worth much to you. What stores have the best goods and at the most reasonable prices in this town? How can you know which stores they are? Watch the ads in this paper, for they tell the story. The merchant who spends money in advertising his goods, invariably has goods that are worth advertising, and his prices must of necessity be right or he could not afford to call especial attention to them through the public print. Just glue your eye to the ads and you will save time, trouble and money—money especially.

Was there something in connection with yourself or your family that should have been mentioned in the paper today? The fault of the oversight was more yours than ours. Editorial eyes are popularly supposed to see everything, but they don't—simply because we are human, after all. Next time anything of the kind occurs just tell us about it at once and you will find us thankful to get it. Our business is to tell other people what takes place in this community and we want you to help us every time you have an opportunity. Tell us about it the next time.

In a moment of mental aberration the other Sunday we drifted into a church and listened to the minister for thirty minutes, and when we emerged again this old world seemed to have changed its dress completely. Our mind was not dwelling upon war, and pestilence, and death; nor did we see in imagination the millions of human beings marching and countermarching and ever seeking for a means to kill. That preacher just talked so earnestly of the love of human kindness that there was no place left in our thoughts for the hell that is being raised over the way. We're going to do it again, and it would do you good to go, too.

Let us spend the coming winter months in devising ways and means of making next summer the most prosperous one in the agricultural history of this community. There are many ways in which we may increase the output to the acreage with but little added expense, but we will have to get together and compare notes in order to accomplish it. Who is for expansion and greater prosperity?

The Shepherd Psalm

By REV. JAMES M. GRAY, D.D.,
Dean of North Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.—Psalm 23:1.

This beautiful psalm needs no commendation, for even the people of the world know and love it in their own way as do the people of God in a different way.

However, it is the latter only who are able to lay the emphasis on the possessive pronoun, "my"—"The Lord is my shepherd." It is this pronoun that makes all the difference as to our understanding of the psalm and its preciousness to our souls. To know its deepest meaning one must have received the Lord Jesus Christ as his Savior and confessed him as his Lord. Then in a real sense does he become his shepherd and with confidence such a soul can say, "I shall not want." Note the future tense here. The child of God does not want for any good thing, and shall not want forevermore.

1. If the Lord is my shepherd then he is causing me to lie down in green pastures, which means that I am daily feeding on his Holy Word. The Scriptures are the green pastures in which the sheep have their soul hunger satisfied, so that they are able to rest in sweet content. We can easily determine how far the Lord can be called our shepherd by the time and thought we give to the Bible, the strength we receive from it, and the love we have for it.

2. If the Lord is my shepherd then I am enjoying the communion of the Holy Spirit because he is leading me beside the still waters. The still waters are a symbol of the Holy Spirit who dwells within the true believer in Christ, to guide him in his perplexities, to comfort him in his trials, and to soothe him in his sorrows, and to enlighten the eyes of his heart in the knowledge of God and his precious promises.

3. If the Lord is my shepherd then I am experiencing continually the renewing of my spiritual strength, for he restores my soul. The sheep sometimes wanders away from the flock and gets torn amid the brambles, or possibly he falls among the rocks and breaks a limb. The shepherd binds up his wounds and knits his broken bones, and in a spiritual sense our shepherd does the same for us. It is this precious truth that is set before us in those words of John where he says, "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

4. If the Lord is my shepherd then I am surrendering my will to him day by day, and for that matter moment by moment, for otherwise he cannot be leading me in the path of righteousness. Observe that the believer on Christ has already been led into those paths, but now he is being led in them as he yields himself to God for that purpose.

5. If the Lord is my shepherd then I am not afraid to trust his promises, for if I fall there I am unable to testify, as in the fourth verse of the Psalm, "I will fear no evil." The moment we lose our trust in God the fear of evil takes possession of us, but he whose confidence is reposed in him can press to his heart the promise in the first chapter of Proverbs, "Whoso hearkeneth unto me shall dwell safely, and shall be quiet from fear of evil."

6. If the Lord is my shepherd then I am continually enjoying security and peace, for such is the meaning of the words, "Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies." In the Orient the enemies of the sheep are the wild beasts just referred to hidden away in the darkness, ready to spring upon their prey when unprotected by the shepherd's presence. But when he is there they feed in safety on the green pastures and their enemies are powerless.

7. If the Lord is my shepherd then I am experiencing joy and gladness, and rendering service of the same kind to others that are about me, for such is the significance of the words, "Thou anointest my head with oil, my cup runneth over." The true Christian is filled to overflowing, and those that are round about him get the benefit of the overflow in refreshing showers of blessing.

8. If the Lord is my shepherd then I am the possessor of eternal hope covering both this life and that which is to come. "For surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

May this blessing come to all of you, and it will come if you will receive the instruction set before you at the beginning of this message, and believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and be saved, for he hath said, "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out."

KILLED IN ACTION

Was John P. Poe, Jr., An American Adventurer—Death To His Liking.

New York.—Though John Prentiss Poe, Jr., famous ex-Princeton football star, soldier, adventurer, and ex-private in the United States Marine Corps, was killed in France on September 25, when his regiment, the Black Watch, was practically annihilated during the British advance in the allies' forward movement, he met the kind of death his venturesome spirit had often pictured in fancy as betting end.

Keenly disappointed at the lack of action he found in the Philippine insurrection, and knowing that the United States Marine Corps offered greater chances for excitement and adventure, he was enlisted in that branch in 1903 by authority of the then Secretary of the Navy, John D. Long, for the threatened war with Columbia over the Panama Canal strip. That war never materialized, and since Poe could not think of "soldiering" unless there was "something doing," he was discharged from the marine corps and later enlisted in the Kentucky State militia during the Governor Goebel shooting trouble. Even duty on the "dark and bloody ground" during those troublesome times didn't bring him the excitement he craved, and he one time bitterly confided to marine corps friends, "I believe that if I ever go to hell I'll find the fires banked."

Still in pursuit of the elusive "strife" he became a captain in the Honduran army in 1907, when that country was at war with Nicaragua, and during the brief struggle got several thrills at the siege of Anapal and the battle of Buenavista. It was after the conclusion of that war that Poe, with five other Americans, who were serving in the Honduran army, became involved in some sort of trouble with the government authorities, and, for a time, their lives were in jeopardy. At the urgent request of the American consul, the U. S. S. Princeton was dispatched to the Honduran coast to aid in bringing the adventurous Americans back to "God's country," and the Princeton's cutter, on reaching shore at an agreed point, found the Americans alive and well and anxious to get back to the States.

"But my baggage," said Poe to the Princeton's captain, who had come ashore in the cutter, "What of my baggage? Please to remember that I am an officer and a gentleman in the service of the Honduran government and I have much luggage."

"We'll attend to that right," said the Princeton's commander, easily. "How much have you got?"

"Fifty-four pieces all told," replied Poe.

The Princeton's skipper was agast. "Do you think my gunboat a freighter, sir? However, we'll fetch it off for you. Kindly enumerate the pieces, and what they contain, so that I may send sufficient small boats to handle it."

Poe was deeply engrossed in thought for a moment as if trying to remember everything, "One pack of playing cards and an extra pair of socks."

LOVE'S WITCHCRAFT

By CAROL HAINES.

Sonia was twenty-three, and it had only been four months since she had come to New York to dance her beautiful Russian dances and make a fortune. Then one night, as she had been returning from the theater, her car had crashed into another and she had been injured. And, after slow months of pain, her money had gradually slipped away, like her new found friends, until only Tillie, the little black-eyed East side maid, remained faithful. Now, to her hands, Sonia trusted her last treasure. She had held it back from sentiment, and yet she did not know the donor.

It had come to her the first night in New York, sent without a card. The curious gem was rounded on one side and concave on the other, something like a reducing glass. And it changed color almost constantly.

Without a penny left, she had given it to Tillie to dispose of, and Tillie went unwillingly up the stairs into the shop on the second floor. There was one other customer bending over a case in a dim corner. An old man came forward slowly and took the case from her hand.

"Where did you get this?" asked the man, after a pause.

"From the lady I work for. She doesn't want her name used."

"And she wishes to dispose of this; yes?"

"Right away. She ain't got any money for anything. And she'll never dance again. She broke her ankles, I guess, and something went wrong with her back too, when the car smashed up. If we don't sell this she'll be a charity case next week. Oh, won't you buy it, please?"

He walked around the cases to where the other man stood and spoke in a low but audible tone, for Tillie's ears were sharp.

"It has come to us of its own volition, price."

The other took the case and regarded the gem in silence, but Tillie caught a glimpse of his face. Surely it was very handsome, she thought, and the old man had said price.

"It is the same, is it not, sir?"

The price bowed his head, looking at the gem as it lay now in his palm.

"I will purchase it from her," he said. "I will not buy this gem, tell you, mistress, but I will make her a loan on it, for I have no right to take advantage of her circumstances, and it is worth far more than she realizes. I will give you a check for five thousand now. If she needs more you will come back here and tell Tillie what you require. That is all."

"What's your royal highness' name," asked Tillie bravely. "She'll want to know."

He detached a seal charm from a black silk fob and gave it to her.

"You may give this to her in surety for her gem."

"Tillie never forgot the face of Sonia Lavloff when she looked upon the charm."

"Take it back to him," she ordered. "And the check. I might have known where the gem came from. Wait, Tillie. I will tell you something, for you have been kind to me, and my one friend here. I danced by royal order before the Persian court, and there was one, Prince Altair Cassam Bey. Her eyes closed as she spoke softly.

"You have seen him, so you will wonder that I cared for him, but I returned to Russia and came straight to America, feeling from my own love for him. Now he has followed me. I cannot accept his charity, tell him. And the gem is his. He should not have sent it to me."

But Tillie, being from the East side and wise in her own generation and hour, went downstairs to the public telephone and called up Mr. Stoll. Tillie waited in the reception room nervously, but before the street lights flashed in the gathering dusk a closed limousine rolled up to the curb and the prince alighted.

"You did right, little maid," he told her, with his rare smile. "You shall choose your own gift at the bridal of your lady."

Tillie followed him upstairs timidly and sat on the edge of a hall chair while he went into the little private room in response to Sonia's faint call at his rap. The silence seemed filled with song and beauty and high hopes, and the tears fell happily from Tillie's eyes as she felt herself to be a herald of happiness to her lady. Finally the door opened and the prince called her.

"You will stay with her constantly," he said gently. "I will make all arrangements for her removal to-night." He bent over the cot with a warning tenderness. "Sonia will find the sea first, and rest there until you are well, my bride. I bless the sacred gem that brought you back to me."

After he had gone, Sonia smiled at the wide-eyed Tillie.

"He sent me the gem himself, Tillie," she said. "It is supposed to have magical qualities for bringing back a lost love; and you see what it has done for us. I had not dreamed that he loved me so."

Tillie beamed on her joyfully.

"Who'd have thought a piece of shiny glass could do all that?" Sonia held the gem on her palm smilingly. "It is clear and radiant with perfect gleams of color."

"It is love's witchcraft," she said softly.

OF DIFFERENT DESIGN

FRENCH AND AMERICAN TAILED SUITS VARY WIDELY.

Women Here Have Accepted Models Popular in France for Two Seasons—Width of the Skirt May Be Moderated.

Everywhere among the best of the tendency to elongate the sides of the coat and place the fullness there. There is no material in the front, and in the back the circular part is smoothed out so that the line is graceful and not bunglesome. The French coats, on the contrary, carry the full pleatum around the figure on a straight line, and the only irregular line is placed at the hem of the skirt. The latter idea was started by the house of Premet among the first short wide skirts shown, and it was greeted with approval by the designers, but not by the public over here; women thought it savored of a ragged robin effect. Today it is generally accepted, a year after its inauguration, which is the fate of most fashions, really. Rarely does a marked departure from the prevailing thing have more than a lukewarm attention until two seasons have passed. Over here we talk and accentuate the wide Russian skirt as a novelty, whereas every house in Paris showed it last August, and two seasons have come since then. In France, there is already talk of modifying its width. When we do it here suits will be far better to look at.

Women who brought home full skirts from Paris a year ago, and who were persuaded to have them narrowed, are now wondering why they listened to the advice of those who did not look into the future and who were convinced that the narrow skirt was the only one to wear.

"It has come to us of its own volition, price."

The other took the case and regarded the gem in silence, but Tillie caught a glimpse of his face. Surely it was very handsome, she thought, and the old man had said price.

MAKING FOUR-HORSE EVENER

Illustration Shows Arrangement Often Desired at Plowing Time—One Horse Worked in Furrow.

A four-horse evener without side draft is often wanted at plowing time. We give here a description of a good arrangement of this kind furnished us by Mr. J. P. Krens, Woodville, Wis. The cut will show how the evener is made, and the measurements are as follows:

Two doubletrees of ordinary length, a good tough stick of which to make the long evener, two iron pulleys which will let a strong small link chain work through them, two bolts to go through the pulleys, and two strap-on braces over the pulleys, will be needed. The stick for the evener should be 5 feet 4 inches long, and the first pulley will be put on 7 inches from the right end of it, measuring to center of pulley. Measure 15 1/4 inches from the center of this pulley and bore hole for the plow clevis. Now measure 30 1/2 inches from the right end of this evener and bore hole for second pulley bolt so that the two pulleys are 24 inches apart. It is best to bore two or three holes at the left end of the long evener. Put the first one 3 inches from the end and the others 2 and 4 inches farther in. This evener works one horse in a furrow and three on the unplowed land with no side draft, say those who have used it.—Wisconsin Agriculturist.

TRYING FARM HELP PROBLEM

Hired Laborer Should Be Moderately Intelligent and Well Informed—Keep Children on Farm.

The requirements of the farm in the character of the labor employed are changing radically. The labor to be performed by the farmer should be governed by extensive information and considerable scientific knowledge. A successful farmer at the present time may need considerable knowledge of chemistry, of bacteriology, of economic entomology, of the pathology and physiology of plants and animals; of plant and animal breeding, of fungicides and insecticides, of the conservation of soil moisture; of botany, pomology, viticulture, horticulture, and certainly much concerning the practical handling and marketing of his products. The hired laborer does not need to know so much, and yet he should be at least moderately intelligent and well informed. With regard to the future, the forecast is that farm labor will not be recruited in appreciable degree from the city. The farmer would not need to get his labor from the cities if he could hold the country population to the soil, and the recognition of the importance of retaining the children on the farm and of keeping country labor from migrating to cities is governing most of the work by nation and state in behalf of agriculture. In addition to efforts to promote economic improvement, many agencies are at work upon the country people to improve their home life, and their social activities, which are already beginning to count against the unpleasantness of country life and in favor of making it attractive.

INFERTILE EGGS KEEP BEST

Large Poultry Plants Seldom Have Male Fowl on Place—Essential to "Swat the Rooster."

(By J. A. HELMBRECH, Colorado Agricultural College.)

Many people think that the cocks have to be with the hens in order to get eggs. This is a mistake and has been demonstrated as such by experiments and practice, for the large poultry plants seldom have a cock on the place and their hens will actually lay more eggs without the cocks around. I do not advise you to kill or dispose of valuable breeding stock, but merely separate them from the hens. When we stop to consider that there is $500,000,000 worth of poultry sold by our farmers annually, and that this amount is as much as the money received for wheat or hay; that 8 percent of all the eggs sold are lost through careless handling, and that a large percent of this loss is due to the production of fertile eggs during the hot months of the year, it is easy to see how essential it is to "swat the rooster."

WEEDS.

A very erroneous idea is prevalent among a great many farmers that a crop of weeds turned down is as good as a coat of manure. They are of as much value as a coat of shavings from a planing mill. The only thing I know they are good for is to furnish a splendid place in which the moths may lay their eggs for a big crop of cut worms the following spring and summer.—C. B. R.

Near and Convenient.

The garden should be near the house so as to make the gathering of vegetables convenient.

Doa White, former American League star pitcher, recently deposed as manager of the Vernon (Cal.) club, has fallen heir to $25,000. Therefore the dentist is not worrying over his shoot down the toboggan.

SALMON WITH BOILED EGG

Delicious Trifle for Hostess to Serve to Guests at Formal or Informal Luncheon.

A salmon sandwich is a tempting article of food, and should be very thin slices of egg and pickles. The hostess will make two different kinds of sandwiches, some with the mixture moistened with vinegar or lemon juice, others without, for many persons cannot eat acids. Practically all meat sandwiches are extremely rich, and strong condiments are used in the filling, especially mustard and catchup. While white meat makes a delicate sandwich, darker meats mixed with mayonnaise and other relishes are more appetizing in every way. When hot sandwiches are served at a noonday luncheon at home, the contents of the sandwich should be placed between two layers of bread and fried, or the bread toasted and covered with a cooked meat filling, then covered with buttered toast and served hot.

ECONOMY IN THE LAUNDRY

Savings May Seem Small, but Amount to a Lot in the Course of a Year.

Soft water for use in laundry work saves soap, clothing, time, energy and money.

Buying soap by the box is more economical than buying it by the quarter's worth.

Removing the soap from the box, and piling it in such a way that it will dry, causes it to wash away less rapidly, and therefore to last longer, than if not dried.

Having a firm, substantial washbench, of a height suited to the worker, so constructed as to hold the tubs securely in position, saves time and energy.

A good stationary wringer, or one which is so made as to be clamped securely to the tub, is a necessity. When through using the wringer, loosen the screws to relieve the pressure on the rubber rollers; wash clean, wipe dry and put it away where it will keep clean until needed.

Occasionally cleaning the wringer with kerosene, and the washing with soap, rinsing and drying, tends to keep it in good condition.

Unique Salad and Dessert.

Extra mayonnaise is served in a half lemon can that has been relieved of the pulp and had a slice cut from the end so it stands upright. It may also be covered with a fluted paper cap.

The yokes of hard-cooked eggs may have pepper, salt, olive oil, a dash of Worcestershire sauce added to them and mixed to a paste, then formed into small balls, roll them in powdered nuts and drop them into the salad, using the rings of white for the garnish on top.

For the simple home luncheon the ordinary pancake may do duty for dessert.

Delecto Fruit Salad.

Halve and seed one cupful of California white or red grapes and mix with one cupful of stones, cherries, two oranges cut in small pieces, one chopped tart apple, two diced bananas, one-half cupful of chopped celery and one cupful of chopped nuts. Chill thoroughly and serve on lettuce with the following dressing: Mix one cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one well-beaten egg, the strained juice of one lemon and two cupfuls of boiling water together. Stir over the fire until the mixture thickens, then cool.

Kitchen Hints.

If an ordinary white pin is held between the teeth while peeling onions it will do away with forced weeping.

If you want only a little bread crumbs and are not a provident housekeeper with a jarful ready rub two bread crumbs together over a bowl until enough is rubbed off. This saves time and trouble of getting out board and rolling pin.

Corn Puffs—Luncheon Dish.

Mix one and one-half cupfuls canned corn with one cupful milk and yolks of two eggs beaten; stir one rounding teaspoonful baking powder into one and one-half cupfuls pastry flour and one-half teaspoonful salt. Fold in the beaten whites after the other ingredients are thoroughly mixed. Bake in gem pans 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

Fried Rice.

One cup of rice in three pints of boiling water. Add pinch of salt and boil rapidly for half an hour. Drain thoroughly in colander, then put the rice two inches thick into dish, put a weight on top and allow to become cold. Cut into slices and dip alternately into crumbs and eggs, and fry in deep hot lard. This is nice served with meat gravy or sirup.

When Food is Too Salty.

It is an easy matter to drop too much salt in the potatoes or peas. To remove the salt stretch a clean cloth over the vessel and sprinkle a tablespoonful or more of flour on the cloth and allow the contents to steam. In a short time the flour will have absorbed the salt.

Oyster Cocktail.

Select six small oysters, season with lemon juice, one teaspoonful of table sauce and add salt sparingly; serve in grapefruit.

GOOD ROADS

MILEAGE OF CONCRETE ROADS

Growth in Popularity Indicated by Rapid Increase in Recent Years in United States.

The mileage of concrete pavements in the United States has increased rapidly, and it is likely to continue to increase, according to a new bulletin of the United States department of agriculture. This bulletin gives the estimated amount of concrete pavement in the United States in 1914 as 19,200,000 square yards; in 1909 it was only 354,000 square yards.

The principal advantage of concrete pavements which have led to this increase in popularity are said to be:

1. Durability under ordinary traffic conditions.
2. A smooth, even surface offering little resistance.
3. Absence of dust and ease with which it may be cleaned.
4. Comparatively small cost of maintenance until renewals are necessary.
5. Availability as a base for another type of surface if desirable.
6. Attractive appearance.

In commenting upon these advantages the bulletin states that the durability of concrete roads has not yet been proved by actual practice, because there are no very old pavements as yet in existence, but from the condition of those which have undergone several years' service it seems probable that they will be found to wear well.

The disadvantages of concrete as a road surface are:

1. Its noise under horse traffic.
2. The wearing of the necessary joints in the pavement, and the tendency to crack, with its consequent rapid deterioration.
3. The difficulty of repairs when these become necessary.

In the past efforts have frequently been made to overcome these objections to a certain degree by covering the concrete pavement with a bituminous wearing surface. At the present time, the specialists in the department hold that this cannot be economically justified, although it is possible that future investigation may change the situation in this respect. In the present state of road science, however, it seems that where traffic conditions are such that a bituminous surface is practicable a bituminous-surface macadam road would be equally practicable and certainly cheaper. Where traffic is too heavy for macadam road the bituminous surface is likely to give way and the uneven manner in which it falls tends to produce excessive wear on portions of the concrete.

For a successful concrete road, hardness, toughness and uniformity are the most essential qualities. These can be secured to a great extent by care in the selection of the constituent materials and the proportions in which they are mixed. Sample specifications are included in the bulletin, No. 248, "Portland Cement Concrete Pavements for Country Roads." These specifications are believed to typify the best engineering practice as it has been developed up to this time. They cover such points as materials, grading, subgrade and construction.

Good Roads Appreciated.

"Motor cars," said Mr. Chuggins, "have done more than anything else to make people appreciate good roads."

"But your machine is constantly breaking down, regardless of the road."

"Yes. But it's a great comfort not to have to climb around in a mud-hole while I am fixing it."

Farmer Saves His Horses.

In considering roads, remember that no town looks so good to the farmer that he will kill his horse to get there.

Improve Rural Conditions.

Good roads will improve every condition of rural life; and they will cost you no more than poor roads are costing you now.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS LYCEUM COURSE.

There is much hard work going on among the Lyceum Course Committee appointed last Friday at the Knights of Pythias hall. Arrangements are being completed to give to the Maysville people an up-to-date course, similar to the one we have at the High School. Following are the members on the course, the dates to be given later:

C. Lawrence Abbott, impersonator, who was born when quite young, and whose big dream of life was to entertain people. His characters will be taken from "Aunt Jane of Kentucky" and "Samantha Allen." He knows how to make those marvelous and delightful characters move and live before his audience.

The Columbian Quartet Concert Party is one of the most remarkable musical organizations in America. For twenty years the personnel has remained unchanged. It is the oldest quartet and concert party to the man on the platform. Three of the members of the party are blind. Their programs have the special merit of variety seldom heard by any quartet, consisting of quartets, trios, duets and solos, instrumental quartets, using the violin, flute, piano and 'cello.

Hon. George T. Aldrich's lectures are strong and sensible; inspiring men to better and more useful lives, women to a nobler and sweeter womanhood. He has been a power in politics. He helped make the Bowxell law and was on the committee that considered it.

The Morphet Entertainment Company comprises a refined exhibition of the most mystifying feats in magic, illusion and ventriloquism, vocal solos and instrumental solos and duets on a number of novel musical instruments. There is just the right touch of refined comedy to make the entertainment highly enjoyable.

The Original Carolina Jubilee Singers is one of the oldest jubilee companies in existence. It was originally organized in 1882 and reorganized in 1891. The musicians now in the company have sung together for eleven consecutive years and in that time have given over 2,400 concerts and is the best number on the course.

The Ida Kinley Entertainers have ranked among the best of lyceum attractions for the last ten years and their friends are legion, from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Gulf to the Great Lakes. Their repertoire in song embraces heavy classical and lighter ballads as well. For several seasons they have presented costume songs with action, and these given with the animation and spirit which characterize all their renditions have won them great favor.

The committee will be around with tickets and hopes to be favored with your help, as this course is well worth the price of $1.50 for the entire course.

Basket Ball Notes

Maysville High School Takes Double Bill From Mayslick—Large Crowd Present.

The 1915 basketball season opened here Friday night with Maysville High School on the winning end of two games. The first and second teams of the local high school met and defeated the first and second teams of the Mayslick Consolidated High School by the scores of 10 to 7 and 26 to 8.

In the first game Mayslick started with a rush and one minute after play was called Milburn Spencer, the speedy little forward of the county team, had a basket to his credit, but this advantage was soon wiped away when goals in rapid succession by Wood and Parker and fouls by Hampton of the local team, were rung up. The first half ended with the score 7 to 5 in favor of Maysville.

The second half opened up with a hair-raising goal from the center of the floor by Kerr, the scrappy guard of M. H. S., a foul goal by Hampton and two by Spencer ended the scoring in this half for both teams, making the final result 10 to 7 in favor of Maysville.

The smallness of the score was entirely due to the active guarding of W. Rees of the Mayslick team, who kept Captain Hampton of the locals, in positions that made accurate goal shooting impossible, and threw the teamwork of the Gold and White out of order. The lineup of the teams was as follows:

Maysville	Position	Mayslick
E. Parker	Left Forward.	M. Spencer, Capt.
Hampton, Capt.	Right Forward.	Manion
C. Wood	Center.	J. Pogue
H. Shea	Left Guard.	M. Rees
Keer	Right Guard.	J. Wood
Substitute—J. Parker.
Field Goals—E. Parker, C. Wood, Kerr, Spencer 2.
Foul Goals—Hampton 3, Spencer 3.
Referee—Mance.
Umpire—W. Manion.

Second Game.

The excitement of the first game had hardly died down until the time for the game between the second teams of both schools was called. Maysville soon had the game on ice by the rapid passing of Downing and the good shooting of Everett, who threw seven baskets in as many minutes. T. Pogue and H. Rees as forwards for the county boys, made a good impression, but the good team work of the Maysville second team was too much for the Mayslick boys, and the first half ended with the figures reading 25 to 5 in favor of Maysville. The second half opened with the Maysville scrubs toying with their opponents, and after seeing how many times they could make the county boys grab for the ball, they would pull off the unexpected and shoot a basket from the most unusual angle possible. Smoot, the tall center of the Maysville quintet, was the clown of the game, shooting when ready and playing as if he had no opponent. Glascock and Cabish staged some pretty team work, the result of which made the score larger. The final score of the second game was 36 to 8, with the large end in favor of Maysville. The lineup:

Maysville	Position	Mayslick
Everett	Cabish	H. Rees
Smoot	Right Forward.	Collopy
Downing	Center.	Collins
Rice	Left Guard.	Galtner
Field Goals—Dickson 4, Everett 8, Smoot 2, Downing 2, Cabish, T. Pogue, H. Rees.
Foul Goals—Smoot 2, Everett, T. Pogue 2, H. Rees 2.
Referee—Arthur.
Umpire—Mance.

A large crowd of Mayslick rooters attended the game, but their yells did not enthrall their favorites. Maysville High School will play at Mayslick in a few weeks, when the supporters of the county school say the score will be different.

ADMITS DEFEAT

Morrow Issues Statement To People of Kentucky—Refuses To Start Contest.

(Friday's Courier-Journal.)

Edwin P. Morrow, opponent of Governor-elect A. O. Stanley in the recent campaign, issued a formal statement to the people of Kentucky yesterday conceding his defeat and disclaiming any intention of instituting a contest before the Legislature. He went to his home at Somerset immediately thereafter and will not return for several days.

Mr. Morrow thanks those who supported him and expresses the belief that only good will come out of the campaign. He predicts the Democrats within the next year will enact an anti-lobby law, a corrupt practices act and a scientific and equitable tax law.

The full statement follows:

To the People of Kentucky: After eight days of doubt the closest election the State ever knew is at an end. The official count now discloses Mr. Stanley's election by a small plurality, and however or by what methods obtained I shall accept it as final.

To plunge the State into a contest before the Legislature would retard its progress, stop its development and create strife and bitterness. The welfare of Kentucky, its people and its material prosperity is above the ambition of any man or the success of any party. Although defeated, I feel that out of my campaign has, and will come only good for my State. I believe I have awakened the conscience of Kentucky to extravagance and inefficiency in the conduct of the public business, to the desperate condition of the public treasury and, above all, to the truth that broken promises to the people bring only evil consequences.

Predictions Made.

The next year will see enacted an anti-lobby law to destroy the "Shack that graft built," a corrupt practices act to protect the ballot and the public office, a scientific and equitable tax law. And in all the departments of State there will be an awakening and a guard placed over the expenditures of the people's money. Believing I will have been instrumental in procuring these results, I feel that I have not labored in vain.

I thank the people of Kentucky without regard to party for their personal kindness to me throughout the campaign and for their confidence in me as expressed at the polls. To those who fought and labored for me I attempt to give no word of praise—my gratitude is above words. With all my power I shall continue the battle for the good of Kentucky and the welfare of her people.

EDWIN P. MORROW.

HOUSE DANCE.

Miss Elexine Russell entertained a number of her young friends Friday night with a dance at the home of her mother, Mrs. Caroline Russell, on East Third street. The dancers tripped the "light fantastic" in the spacious parlors until 11 o'clock, when they were served with refreshments, after which all departed, having spent a happy evening.

NEW SOCIETY HOLDS FIRST SESSION.

The Y. W. A. of the First Baptist church met Friday evening with Mrs. L. H. Veale, on Front street. This is a new society recently organized by Mrs. Veale and the young ladies are very enthusiastic and are taking a great interest in the work. The aim of the organization is to train the girls for more efficient work in the church. Mr. Veale has had a great deal of experience in training young people and from the manner in which the young ladies are taking hold of the work, the church will receive great benefit from this organization.

Mr. J. P. Graybill, of Fernleaf, came into the city Friday. He and Mr. J. R. Stephenson boarded the afternoon flyer for Cincinnati and are back with a new Oakland six. The new car is one of the handsomest on the market. Mr. Graybill is quite proud of his new machine.

GERMANTOWN.

A fairly good rain fell here Monday, which was much needed by vegetation.

A fine son arrived at the home of O. P. Morgan on Thursday, November 4. Reva, Ruggles and Overly are engaged in a most successful and interesting revival at Salem church.

Elmer Hitt and Miss Kittie Griffith were united in marriage here on Saturday night, November 6, Rev. Ruggles performing the ceremony at his home. The groom resides at Hittsville, Robertson county, while his bride is a daughter of Mrs. Sylvester Owens, of near Bridgeville.

One day last week, John E. Elliott and wife, formerly of this place, sold their farm near Mayslick, containing 53½ acres to John N. Walton, the consideration being $8,000. The place is one of the best improved in Mason county, having a concrete residence, which is modern in every particular—light, water and heat, and everything about the farm is in fine condition. We have not learned as to the plans of Mr. Elliott and wife.

Mr. John Tyler Stiles and Mrs. Kate Traugott were united in marriage at the home of the bride, near Sharon, Tuesday night, November 9, Dr. A. D. Tadlock, pastor of the Sharon church, officiating. Immediately after the wedding ceremony the happy couple repaired to the home of the groom in this place, where an elegant wedding supper was served to a number of friends of the high-contracting parties.

The groom is one of our old and respected citizens, while his bride is a most estimable lady, the widow of the late Philip Traugott, who died a few years ago. Mr. Stiles had his home put in fine shape for the coming of the bride, and we are glad to welcome her to our midst. Both bride and groom have many friends throughout the two counties who will join with us in extending congratulations.

ACTING COUNTY JUDGE.
